wast we may expect Monday appeared in Friday's Globe-Democrat:
Seldom has any exhibition met with the patronage that is being accorded to the Adam Forepauch shows this week at the old Sportman's Park. Each night has found the 10,000 seats filled with pleased spectators. [Nothing succeeds like success, it has often been said. In this case it might be claimed that the movelty and mert of the shows have struck the fanny of the public, and thus every one who sees them becomes an advertiser. Thus far, with a single exception, not an accedent has happened; the only thing which might possibly be claimed as each was a collision during the races, which constituted the acception noted. This fortunately resulted in no injury, though three house and their jockeys went down in turning the curve where the battles of the American Revolution are fought.
